★ The New Ranma Project ★

When we first began The New Ranma Project, I NEVER thought we'd actually get this book done. In our initial experiments with translations, we skipped this book entirely. At the time, all our efforts to find scripts for this book turned up nothing. We found a script for the first chapter, and that was it. To complicate the matter, the book was in Kanji, which none of my friends who study Japanese could read.

When we first began, from 235 chapters we planned to do, we were unable to find scripts for 28 of those chapters, 23 of those chapters were in Kanji books, and 10 of those missing 23 were in this book.

But then we caught a very lucky break. One of our volunteers, Shih-schon Lin, could read Kanji. And ultimately he wrote scripts for us to fill in all 23 of the missing kanji chapters.

The first 5 chapters were then finished very early on by Tom Lee. Unfortunately, he then needed to go to China of all places as part of his martial arts touring exhibition. I held onto the chapters for months waiting for his return, but even when he did come back, he was unable to continue.

Finally DarkAsh stepped in. Easily our hardest working translator of the latter half of the Project. He quickly filled in all 6 of the missing chapters and did a fine job of it too. :D

The pantyhose bastard and the register thief are probably one in the same...

After the battle, we're sure to get some pantyhose!
He'll probably turn out to be a nice guy.
